N. J., at half past 10 o'clock Saturday drowned before aid could reach them. night the three-masted schooner, Henry P. Mason, from Perth Amboy, N. J., for Portland, Me., loaded with 1,100 tons of red clay, struck, it is believed, a submerged wreck, and at 1:30 o'clock this morning sunk. The crew and two passengers of the schooner took to the vessel's small boat and after being buffeted by the heavy seas all night and part of to-day were rescued by Captain Paterson and the Sandy Hook life-saving crew, who were towed out to the boat, one mile off Galilee, by the New York Yacht Club's committee boat, Navigator, on which was C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the yacht Reliance, and Bert C. Leeds. The survivors reached Sandy Hook at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on board the Navigator, apparently in good condition, and later were brought, by the NOTORIOUS IN ORME same vessel, to this city. It is believed the schooner will be a total loss.

Those rescued were: Captain A. W. Frost, Portland, Me.; First Mate John H. Smiley, Boston; Second Mate Charles Johnson, Baltimore; Steward Preston Grover and wife, Tennant's Harbor, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Masilous, New York, passengers, the latter a sister of Captain Frost, and the following members of the crew: George W. Coffin, Nantucket, Mass.; Henry Roth, New York; Michael Sylvester, Norway; Gus Franklin, Finland; Michael Halsen, Finland.

When the Mason struck the mainmast and mizzen mast were broken off short and the vessel began to leak badly. At 1 o'clock an anchor was dropped overboard, but it was soon discovered that the vessel would not keep afloat, and the crew and passengers took to the small boat.

For a time they held to the stern of the schooner, but as there was danger of her going to the bottom at any moment, they cast off and drifted. About a mile of Galilee, they made fast to a fish pound, where they remained until they were res-

It was II o'clock this morning when the Navigator located the twelve persons in their perilous position, and it was fully an hour before they could be rescued. Inis was accomplished in as daring a manner as has been told in any sea tale, fiction or fact. The big tug made several attempts to get near the yawl and then finally going to windward of it, cast off the life-boat's line. With splendid dexterity a line was sent from the life-boat paid out until the yawl was reached. In such a condition were the shipwrecked ones that they could not help themselves, and Capt. Patterson and his crew had to simply lift them out. First came the two women and then three sailors. Meantime, under the directions of Mr. Iselin, the Navigator's crew had thrown a dozen pails of oil overboard to the windward of the yawl so that the sea was calmed, and the big tug had taken a position so that the wind did not catch her on the beam. The women, when brought aboard, were carefully attended to. Mr. Iselin having taken along a chambermaid

Captain Frost, of the Mason, said that just before the Navigator arrived they had | house week after week, practically a prisonconcluded that the women would die in a few hours, and they had decided to try for the beach. He said that on Saturday, when they were out near the lightship at anchor, the most horrible in the history of the city the Old Dominion line steamer Hamilton offered to take them off, and he urged the women to go, but they declined to leave without the men. When Captain Patterson asked for the assistance of the Navigator, Capt. Charles Barr, of the Reliance, stood by. He added: "I have fifty men; every one of them will volunteer to help if you want them." Captain Patterson explained that it was a tug and not the men that was needed.

Police Say She Gave Whisky to Little Girl Who Was Made Victim of Negro.

STARVING A LITTLE GIRL.

Fifteen-Year-Old Julia Bolton ticed to Ruin by Her, It Is Charged.

Kate Martinek, the woman who figured in the case of little Hazel Orme about a year ago, was arrested last night by Patrolmen Woodward and Green and locked up at the police station on a charge of being drunk and of giving liquor to minors. Mrs. Martinek, it is said, enticed Julia Boulten, a fifteen-year-old girl, of 1221 West Market street, to her house yesterday and there, in company with a negro by the name of White and a white man by the name of Star Flynn, of Bedford, Ind., coaxed the little girl to drink whisky until she became irresponsible for her acts. The negro then assaulted the child, it is said, and made his escape before the police ar-

When the patrolmen went to the Martinek house, at 1330 West Market street, last night, they found the woman and the little girl lying in a drunken stuper on the floor of the porch, while Flynn was sleeping in a chair inside the house. The child was so drunk that it was some time before the police were able to arouse her enough to find out her name. Her clothes were torn half off of her. She said that she was with the Martinek woman during the afternoon to a pole in the fish pound and then was and evening and had become intoxicated before she realized what she was doing. The Martinek woman, at the police station, accused Flynn of giving the little girl the whisky and said that she was asleep when the girl got drunk. Flynn and the girl both say that Mrs. Martinek and with them during the whole carousal.

- THE HAZEL ORME CASE. Mrs. Martinek and her husband, who recently died, were arrested last year and taken before Judge Stubbs of the Police Court on a charge of cruelty to children, it being alleged at the time that they kept fourteen-year-old Hazel Orme at their er, and starved her until she was nothing but skin and bones. The case was one of and at the time attracted widespread attention. Judge Stubbs sentenced the Marbeat to harbor in safety. After the death of Mr. Martinek the woman now under arrest sent two of her children to Kansas City, where they are being cared for by relatives. The youngest child, which at the time of the trial of its mother was a babe in arms, is living with its mother in this city. The Martinek woman will be given a hearing in the Police Court this morning, and said last night that on account of her former trouble she expected little mercy from the court. William White, 821 Kinney street, the negre who is supposed to have assaulted the little girl, was later arrested by the patrolmen and locked up at the police staion. White, it is said, has been the constant companion of the Martinek woman since her husband's death some time ago.

> The quarrel between Sumner and Horne was an old one, it is said, and was the ending of a Kentucky feud. Horne had tried on several occasions to kill Sumner's father and had shot his own brother while in Kentucky, the last offense driving him from the Bluegrass State. A large sum of money was raised yesterday at the mass meeting, and a committee was appointed to confer with Attorney Taylor Groninger relative to the defense. Mr. Groninger said last night that he would conduct the case for Sumner and believed that he would be able to secure the man's acquittal as there is positive evidence that the killing was done in self-defense. The case was set for

He Will Be Able to Go to His Cleveland Office To-Day.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30 .- Senator M. A. Hanna, who was taken suddenly sick a few days ago in his office, was much improved to-day and will try to get to his office to-morrow to attend a political conference with state leaders. Senator Hanna was not permitted to go out for a drive this afternoon, his physician advising that he not extend his exertions further than the house veranda and a short walk on the senator's lawn.

moment that fighting occurs at the frontier Turkish Army Is Powerless.

LONDON, Aug. 31.-The Salonica correspondent of the Daily Mail describes the situation in Macedonia as being one of the utmost gravity. The insurgents are everywhere increasing in numbers and holding their own against the Ottoman soldiers. Anarchy reigns supreme, asserts the correspondent, the vast Turkish army being completely out of control and eating up the country. In a few weeks famine must ensue, causing untold misery. Any outrage in the city of Salonica now would turn the

Turks into soldiers and the populace into wild beasts. The country west of the river

Varda, towards the Vilayet of Monastir, is expected to rise daily. The Times correspondent at Salonica gives a similar account to that sent by the Daily Mail correspondent of the ill-concealed terror prevailing in that city and fears that some incident may precipitate an indescribable massacre. Commerce, he says, is paralyzed and a famine is apprehended. The ambassadors and consuls recently appealed to their governments to send warships, but the desire to avoid the appearance of encouraging the insurgents seems to be held of greater importance than precautionary measures for the protection of Europeans. Hence, the vessels have not been sent. Preparations for an approach-rapidly progressing, but the day of the outbreak has not yet been fixed. Among the Turks themselves, continues the correspondent, a growing body profess to be ready to support European intervention to remedy the desperate condition of affairs, and even talk of murdering the foreign consuls as a means to compel foreign intervention. There is no lack of seu-

ing insurrection in northern Macedonia are
